1. INTRODUCTORY BACKGROUND

The National Department of Human Settlements herewith calls for proposals to be registered on a Panel of Assessors to conduct condition assessments of damage houses and provide emergency housing intervention.

The South African Constitution, Section 26 (Act 108, 1996) enshrines the right of everyone to have access to adequate housing. The Constitution makes it incumbent upon the State to take reasonable legislative and other necessary measures within its available resources to achieve progressive realization of this right. In implementing the progressive realization of this right as provided for in the Constitution, the Housing Act, 1997 (Act No 107 of 1997) introduced a variety of programmes which provide households access to adequate housing.

The National Department of Human Settlements (NDoHS) is considering methods to ensure delivery of basic services and emergency housing options in compromised living spaces and intends to appoint service providers in line with the National Housing Programme for housing assistance in emergency housing circumstances, where there is an immediate threat to life, health and safety. The objective of the programme is to provide for temporary relief to people in urban and rural areas who find themselves in emergencies. An Emergency Housing Response Fund is in place, administered by the National Department of Human Settlements to ensure that this programme is successfully implemented.

Although the programme for housing assistance in emergency circumstances is now centralised with the National Department it is crucial that there should be appropriate, flexible and timely response to housing emergencies by the Department throughout the country. The ability to respond timeously is largely determined by the available capacity, primarily human resources and technical expertise within the organisation to deal with the effects of damaged houses. Such capacity is not readily available within the NDoHS. Subsequently, it is necessary to procure the services of assessors to conduct condition assessments of damaged structures and provide advice on suitable remedial solution.

2. POLICY FRAMEWORK

Housing assistance in emergency situations is a programme provided for in the National Housing Code of 2009. It is intended to provide temporary housing relief to households in stress following natural or man-made disasters (eg. where settlements have been destroyed by fire or houses have been rendered uninhabitable by storms and need to be repaired). In such cases the National Disaster Relief Fund renders the first line of Government assistance. The Emergency Housing Assistance Programme is then used for temporary housing for disaster victims until such time as they can be provided with permanent houses.

In the past Funding under this Programme was made available to municipalities and provinces as a grant for the provision of temporary housing relief to households in stress following natural or man-made disasters. Currently this has been centralised in the NDoHS and an Emergency Housing Response Fund established ensure that this programme is successfully implemented. The NDoHS working with other spheres of government will through this fund respond rapidly to housing emergencies to provide short-term assistance to households affected and/or impacted by disasters, through:

- Building the permanent shelter using Alternative Building Technology (ABT)
- Supply of building materials
- Homeowner managed repairs through the voucher system
